INTRODUCTORY NOTE

This Dictionary has been prepared as a handy volume for clerks, shorthand writers, and typists who are mainly engaged in commercial correspondence. Much labour has been expended in its compilation, and it is believed that the book cannot fail to be of the utmost advantage to those for whose use it is primarily intended.

Univocal words, which present no difficulty as to spelling or pronunciation, have been excluded, whilst in the body of the work are placed in alphabetical order the most common abbreviations, signs, anglicised foreign expressions, etc. The spelling adopted is that of the best recognised English authorities, and whenever a difficulty may arise as to the doubling of a consonant in using a participial form of a verb, the correct method of usage is indicated by means of brackets.

In the Appendix is drawn together a variety of usefu commercial information which is rarely to be found in ordinary dictionaries.

The remedy of weight is the amount of variation allowed in the fineness and weight of the coins when they are first issued from the Mint.

Standard gold contains eleven-twelfths of fine metal and one-twelfth of alloy, i.e., 22 carats fine, with 2 carats of alloy, its fineness is represented by 916.6. Twenty troy pounds of standard gold are coined into 934 sovereigns and one half-sovereign, and one troy ounce is intrinsically worth £3 17s. 10 d. One ounce of pure gold is of the value of £4 4s. 11 d.

Standard silver consists of thirty-seven parts of pure silver and three parts of alloy. Its fineness is represented by 925. One troy pound of standard silver is

Any person is entitled to take gold of a value of not less than £20,000 to the Mint, and have it coined. In practice however, the gold is taken to the Bank of England, and exchanged at once at the rate of £3 17s. 9d. per ounce.

Gold coins issued prior to 1837 are no longer legal tender in this country. Light gold may be taken to the Bank, and the full face value allowed if the loss in weight does not exceed four grains in each sovereign, and if it appears that the coins have not been illegally or unfairly tampered with.

There is no weight fixed below which a silver coin ceases to be current.

COINAGE (COLONIAL)

The coinage is, generally, the same as that of the United Kingdom. The following are the exceptions :-

Canada. In 1912 Canada began to coin gold pieces of the value of 10 and 5 dollars respectively. The United States eagle of to dollars and the English sovereign are still both legal tender to any amount. The English sovereign is valued at $4.86%. Silver coins (dollars) are only legal tender up to 10 dollars, and minor coins up to 25 cents.

India. The standard of India is a silver one, the unit being the rupee, which is equal to 16 annas. The English sovereign passes current at 15 silver rupees. The silver coins are the rupee, the half rupee, the quarter rupee, and the eighth 100,000 rupees is called a lac of rupees.

Newfoundland. The unit of value is the dollar, which is equal to 1'014 of the United States dollar. The actual coins in use are $2 pieces. The English sovereign and the United States dollar are full legal tender for $4.8 and $.985 respectively. The silver coins are legal tender up to $10 only.

(1) The area of a triangle. Multiply half the base by the perpendicular drawn from the opposite angle to the base.

(2) The area of a rectangle. Multiply the length by the breadth.

(3) The area of any other right-lined figure. Divide it into triangles: find the area of each, as in (1), and the sum of them will give the area.

(4) The area of a circle. Multiply the square of the radius by 374459, or the square of the diameter by 7854. (N.B.— The circumference of a circle is found by multiplying the diameter by 3.14159.)

METRIC SYSTEM

The metric system is a decimal one. The basis of all measurements is the metre which is the ten-millionth part of the assumed length of the direct distance from the Pole to the Equator. The calculation of this length was made in 1795, and was adopted by the French Government as the unit. In English measure it is about 3 feet 31 inches, or, more exactly, 39'37079 English inches, or 3'2808092 English feet, or 1'0936331

One of the principal advantages of the unit taken for each set of measures, and the remainder are powers of ten of this unit. For the construction of a table, as soon as the unit is known, the other parts are formed by the following prefixes:

> Kilo 1,000 times. 100 times. to times. Deca 1 of. Ton of. Centi Tood of.

The reduction from one denomination to another is performed by multiplying or dividing by some power of ten. Hence there is no alteration in the figures, but simply an alteration in the position of the decimal point.

Measure of Length

The fixed unit is the metre, which is a little longer than a yard.

= 39'37079 inches. = 91'43835 centimetres Io millimetres (mm.) = 1 centimetre.
Io centimetres (cm.) = 1 decimetre.
Io decimetres (dm.) = 1 metre.
Io metres = 1 decametre. To decametres (Dm.) = 1 hectometre.

To hectometres (Hm.) = 1 kilometre.

To kilometres (Km.) = 1 myriametre.

The micron = metre is used for extremely small measures.

Measure of Area

The unit of land measurement is 10,000 square metres, which is called a hectare The are is therefore the square decametre.

1 are = 119.603 sq. yds. 1 sq. mile = 258.98945 hectares. 10 centiares (Tuo are) = 1 deciare. 10 deciares (10 are) = 1 are. 10 ares

Measure of Weight

The unit of weight is the weight of a cubic centimetre of distilled water at 40 Centigrade, and at a normal pressure of 760 millimetres.

I gramme = 15'4323 grains. = 2'20462 lbs.

10 hectogrammes (Hg.) = 1 kilogr. (Kg.) 100 kilogrammes is called a quintal.

1,000 kilogrammes is called a tonneau.

PROOFS

Correction of Printers' Proofs

In order to correct a printer's proof, a knowledge of the symbols generally employed for that purpose is needful. The following specimen of printed matter has been prepared in order to illustrate most of the typographical errors which meet the eye of a proof-reader, while in the margin the ordinary methods of correcting them are shown. Explanations are added with the view of rendering the use of the symbols as intelligible as possible. should be noted that underlining a word once in the manuscript, or in the proof, is an indication to the printer that the word should be printed in italics: a double underlining indicates SMALL and three lines indicate large

6. A wrong final letter appears in "does"; the pen is drawn through it, and the right letter is written in the margin. The sloping stroke following the "s" is merely a dividing mark, usually placed after each correction, in case any others should follow in the same line.

7. A comma instead of a full stop is printed after the word "operation"; a circle is drawn round it, and the full stop, encircled, is written in the margin, followed by "W" to show that the next word, "when," must begin with a capital.

8. A hyphen is omitted after "de" at the end of the line; the error is noted by a caret underneath and a hyphen between two vertical or sloping lines on

There is too much space before the word "or"; the sign employed means that the words should be closed up.

10. "Closed" is wrongly printed with a

11. A full stop is wrongly inserted after the word "question"; the correc-tion is made by a circle in the margin, followed by the letter "d," signifying "dele," the Latin word for "expunge." The letter should be written as shown,

16. The mark between the words "that" and "the" is caused by a "space" standing up; attention may be called to it in several ways, that shown in the margin being perhaps the simplest. 17. A new paragraph (N.P.) should begin with the word "those."

PUNCTUATION

Punctuation marks or stops are used in written or printed passages in order to make the writer's meaning clear. By studying the punctuation, the reader discovers where the pauses should occur, and of what duration they should be.

I. The Comma (,) indicates a slight pause, and is used

(1) To separate short co-ordinate sentences, e.g., I went to town, and I bought a book. But a semi-colon is preferable when the sentences are of considerable length, especially when they are not joined by a conjunction, e.g., The first condition of human goodness is something to love; the second something to reverence.

(2) To separate the different clauses of a complex sentence, e.g., While he was speaking, I perceived that the audience, who had at first strongly opposed him, were gradually coming round to his opinions.

In a short sentence, however, the comma is usually omitted, e.g., I knew that the visitor had

(3) To separate words and phrases in apposition, unless the words are very closely connected, e.g., Charity, the greatest of all virtues, is too rare among us.

His daughter Mabel was un-

(4) To separate words indicating the person addressed from the rest of the sentence, e.g., My lords, ladies and gentlemen,

I have the honour of laying my scheme before you.

N.B.—In the middle of a sentence, these words are preceded as well as followed by a comma, e.g., Here, my friend, you will be

(5) To separate participial clauses from the principal sentence, e.g.,

Having travelled all night, we were tired.

(6) To separate a series of words constituting a list, e.g., He was generous, talented, and amiable. We should love even our enemies, persecutors, and

(7) To separate quoted words from the words which introduce them, e.g., "My time," said he, "is short." (8) To separate certain adverbs (viz., again, finally, besides, firstly, therefore, etc.) from the rest of the sentence, e.g.,

Finally, let me ask you to be careful. Let me, finally, ask you to be careful. (9) To indicate the omission of a word,

e.g., The young are slaves to fashion;

II. The Semi-colon (;) indicates a somewhat longer pause than the comma, and

(1) To separate co-ordinate sentences consisting of two or more members, e.g.,
We love our homes; we honour our rulers; we glory in our privileges; we fear our God.

(2) Instead of a comma, when the various statements in a sentence are to be specially emphasised.

To be bred in a place of estimation; to be taught to respect one's self; to have leisure to read; to be employed as an administrator of law and justicethese are desirable circumstances.

III. The Colon (:) is used

(1) To separate independent sentences, which are to be slightly connected, e.g.,

If we command our wealth, we shall be rich and free: if our wealth command us, we are poor

(2) To introduce a quotation, e.g., In connection with the Zululand crisis, the Daily Telegraph remarks: "In official circles it is declared that the Government is determined to put an end to an

But if the quotation is short and closely connected with the introductory sentence, a comma should be used, e.g., He said, "I have Old England set against me."

(3) To precede enumerations, e.g.,
The following is a list of the articles stolen: "Portrait of a Lady" by Rubens; a gold watch; two inlaid snuff-boxes; a diamond brooch, and a pearl pin.

N.B.-Except in (3) the colon is more rarely used than any other

IV. The Period or Full Stop (.) indicates that the sentence is complete, and is used to separate complete and independent sentences, e.g.,

This extraordinary man found himself in great straits. To please was the object of his life; but to tax and to please is not

It is also used after abbreviated forms, as, for instance: B.Sc., Bachelor of B.Sc., Science. d. (Lat. denarius), a penny.

V. The Mark (or Note) of Interrogation (?) is used only after a direct question, e.g.,

Is there no physician here? If, however, the indirect form is used, the mark of interrogation gives place to the full stop, e.g., He is asking whether there is a physician here. Note also the following points-

(1) When a series of questions are interdependent, and form one compound sentence, the note of interrogation is placed after the last only, e.g.,

Where now are the joys of childhood; the friends of our youth; the happy days of early

(2) When an affirmative quotation occurs at the end of an interrogative sentence, the note of interrogation must be placed outside the marks of quotation,

> Can it be proved that "guilty consciences always make people cowards "?

VI. The Mark (or Note) of Exclamation (!) indicates surprise, emotion, admiration, It is used-

(I) After interjections, e.g.,
Hark! they whisper . . .
(2) After invocations, e.g.,
Vital spark of heavenly flame!

(3) After exclamatory phrases, e.g., Alas, my brother! Help me, Cassius, or I sink! O, what a fall was there, my

VII. The Parenthesis () is used to enclose words which may be removed without affecting the construction of the sentence. The words thus enclosed are usually explanatory or incidental in character, e.g.,

He (Mr. Burke) could not admit

He resolved therefore (if we may trust Ambassador's to make

VIII. The Dash (-) marks hesitation, or indicates an abrupt breaking off, e.g.,

And I-I owe you all.

I had a thing to say,—but let it go.
"I cannot find my—" "Slippers," said his wife.

The Dash may also be used instead of viz., i.e., and similar expressions, as,

Nouns are divided into three classes-Proper, Common, and Abstract.

Occasionally a Dash is placed before and after an explanatory remark instead of enclosing the latter in a parenthesis, as, The State takes upon itself-in the interest of the majority of its citizensto thrust into gaol certain offenders.

A Dash is also sometimes placed before a word or phrase to which special attention is to be directed, especially if the word or phrase is not the one expected, as,

"Surely you will give me something now?" "Yes, I'll give you—leave to go to bed."

IX. The Apostrophe (') is used

(1) As a sign of the Possessive Case, as, Heaven's gates are open.

(2) To mark the elision of a letter, as, The play's the thing.

(3) When writing of letters and figures in the plural, as, Dot your i's. He has had three o's.

X. The Hyphen (-) is used

(1) To divide the syllables of a word. This is done according to the derivation rather than the pronunciation, e.g., Tur-bu-lence, af-firm-a-tion.

(2) To unite two or more words into one compound word, as, Non-existent, long-looked-for,

never-to-be-forgotten,

(3) Between a prefix and the word to which it belongs, when two vowels. both of which are pronounced, come together, as, Pre-existence, pre-emption, co-

XI. Brackets [] are used to separate interpolated words from the rest of the sentence. It will, therefore, be seen that the use of brackets is somewhat similar to that of parentheses. The latter are, however, much more common, and the words they enclose have usually a more direct bearing on the subject matter of the sentence in which they occur.

Brackets may be used to enclose an explanation of the words immediately preceding, or to suggest a correction, e.g., A good razor never hurts, neither would good wit were men [if men would be] as tractable as their chins.

This has happened in many other

XII. Marks of Quotation or Guillemets (" ") are used to enclose a quotation, when the actual words of another person are introduced, e.g.,

Byron says, "I awoke one morning, and found myself famous."

In indirect quotation, however, i.e., when the exact words are not used, quotation marks are unnecessary, e.g.,

Byron says he awoke one morning and

A quotation within a quotation is usually marked off by single inverted commas, e.g.,

I heard him say, "It is not always true that 'fine feathers make fine birds.'"

Quotation marks are also used

(t) In quoting the title of a book, as,
My favourite novel is "The Sowers" by Seton Merriman.

(2) To draw special attention to a word or phrase, e.g.,

Poets are fond of the word "Philistine" as applied to their

XIII. The Caret (A) is used to show that an omitted word or phrase is inserted elsewhere, generally above. It has been called "the blunder-mark," e.g.,

I know that, is there.

XIV. The Diaresis is placed over the second of two vowels when both are to be pronounced separately, as, Aerial.

XV. Asterisks () or other Marks of Ellipsis (-, . . . ,) are used to mark the omission of words. They are commonly found in quotations, when the latter are not required in full to illustrate the

As Shakespeare says, "A politician, one that would circumvent God."

A single Asterisk or Star (*), like the Dagger (†), and the Double Dagger (†) are used for purposes of reference to foot-

XVI. The Paragraph (¶) marks the beginning of a new subject, while the Section (§) is used to indicate the smaller divisions of a book, as, see Book iii. § 12.

XVII. The Cedilla is used in words taken from the French to show that "c" has a soft sound before "a," "o" and " u "; e.g., façade, Alençon.

- (1) Two Commas (,,), used instead of "Ditto," to indicate repetition of words above them.
- (2) The Index or Hand (AM), and the three Asterisks (,), used to direct special attention to certain
- (3) The Brace (), used to bracket words or phrases in different lines, when the statement on the other side of the sign applies to all equally. In this way needless repetition is avoided, e.g.,

Masculine and Neu-ter nouns ending in "el," en," er," plural (in Neuter nouns in "chen" and "lein." German) by modi-tying the The two Feminine Nouns "Mutter"

- (4) The following Accents, used mostly in foreign languages to indicate
 - (a) The Acute (1), which usually marks a short "e" (pron. ay).
 - (b) The Grave (1), which usually marks a long-vowel sound.
 - (c) The Ctrcumflex (A), which often indicates that a letter has been dropped, as in "maître," orig. "maistre," French for "master.
 - (d) The Long (-) which (e) The Breve or self-exp self-explanatory.
 - (f) The Tilde (~) which gives the Spanish "n" a sound resembling " ni " in " onion."

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES (BRITISH)

The standard of measurement is the imperial yard, a length fixed by Act of Parliament in 1878. It is a solid square 8 furlong bar in the custody of the Board of Trade, and copies of it are kept in various places. For the convenience of the public, a copy is exhibited, amongst other places, on the outer walls of Greenwich Observatory.

The standard of weight is the pound. This is the weight of a carefully preserved piece of platinum shaped like a cylinder, measuring 1 35 in. high, and 1 15 in. in diagrater.

The standard of capacity is the gallon. This contains ten Imperial standard pounds' weight of distilled water weighed in air against brass weights, with the water and the air at a temperature of 62° F., and with the barometer at 30 in.

The following are special measures of length :-

(a) Cloth Measure

(For cloths, linens, silks, etc., Scotch and Irish linen are measured by the yard. Dutch linen is bought by the Flemish ell and sold by the English. Tapestry is generally sold by the Flemish ell.)

21 inches = 1 quarter (of a yd.) = 1 Flemish ell. 4 nails

(c) Land Measure

(Land is measured by means of Gunter's chain. This chain is 22 yards long, and consists of 100 links.)

792 long inches = 1 long link.
25 long links = 1 long pole.
4 long poles = 1 long chain.
80 long chains = 1 long mile.

12 calendar = r civil year, months 65 days, 5 hrs., = r mean solar year. 48 m., 51 s.

366 days = 1 leap year. 36,524 days = 1 century.

The addition of a day every fourth year, leap year, does not keep the calendar quite correct. It is a little too much. The difference amounts to about three days in 400 years. Three years in every four centuries, therefore, are not counted as leap years, and it has been arranged that those centurial years which are not divisible exactly by four, when the two last ciphers are taken away, shall not be counted as leap years. Thus, 1800 and 1900 were not leap years, but 2000 will be. After the last named year there will be no leap year until 2400.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES (FOREIGN)

Argentine Republic. The metric system is in use.

Austria-Hungary. The metric system is in use. The names, however, of the weights and measures are the same as those used in the German Empire.

Belgium. In this country, too, the metric system is in use, and the names of the various weights and measures are the same as those used in France with the following exceptions:—the kilogram is called the livre, the litre the litron, and the metre the anne.

Brazil. In addition to the metric system, there are certain weights and measures in use which are derived from the old Portuguese. The principal are the following—

- (a) Length: the covada = 26.247 inches and the vara = 3.64 feet.
- (b) Weight: the arratel=roir8 lb., the arroba=32'384 lb., and the quintal (110 arratel)=101'18 lb.
- (c) Capacity: the almude=3.684 gals., and the alqueire=1.1 bushels.

Cen ral America. In addition to the metric system, the weights and measures of old Spain are in common use. (See Spain.)

Chili (and also Bol via). Same as Central America.

China. At Hong Kong and the other treaty ports the British weights and measures are in use. The principal native weights and measures are as follows—

(a) Length: the fan or fun="141 in., the tsun=141 in., the chih=141 in., the chang= 141 in., and the yin= 1410 in.= 1171 ft.

(b) Weight: the tael or leang = 4 oz., the cattie = 1 lb., and the tan or pical = 1331 lb. The English hundredweight is equal to 84 catties.

(c) Capacity: the ho = 2 pts., the sheng = 20 pts., and the ton = roo pts.

Denmark. (a) Length: the temme = 1°020 in., the fod = 1°020 ft., the alen = 2 fod, the faven = 6 fod, the rode = 12 fod, and the mil = 2,000 roder or 4°6805 English miles.

The tonde (a measure of area) or the tonde land (14,000 sq. alen) = 1.363 English acres.

(b) Weight the pund = 1.102 lb., and the centner = 100 lb. The pund is subdivided into 16 unser and 32 lod.

(c) Capacity: the pob = 1.69 pts., the kande = 2 potter, the viertel = 4 kande, the skeppe = 18 rotter, the fjerdingkar = 2 skepper, the tönde = 4 fjerdingkar and the laest = 12 tónder. The laest is about equal to 45.87 English bushels, and therefore the tönde is the equivalent of 3.82 bushe's. The anker is a measure of 30 potter and equal to 8.29 English imperial gallons.

Egypt. (a) Length: the kirat=1'1 in, the rub=6 kirats, the pik=4 rubs, and the gasab=4 riks. The gasab is therefore about equal to 2'88 English yards.

The feddan is a square measure and is equal to 400 sq. gasab, that is, nearly ‡ of an acre.

(b) Weight: the rottolo = 1 lb. nearly, the oke = 2.7 lb., and the cantar (or 100 rottoli) = 99 lb. nearly.

(c) Capacity: the ardeb is a grain measure which varies considerably, according to the grain measured. At Cairo it is equal to about 5 bushels.

France. The metric system is in use.

German Empire. The metric system is that in use, but the names given to the various weights and measures are as follows—

| German. | Metric system | | |
|--|--|--|--|
| Stab. Strich. Neuzoll. Kette. Kanne. Schoppen. Fass. Neuloth. | Metre. Centimetre. Millimetre. Decametre. Litre. Half-litre. Hectolitre. Decagramme. | | |

There are also the weights called the plund, which is equal to 500 grammes, or 171023 lb., the centner = 100 plund, and the tonne= 2,000 plund. The centner, therefore, is rather less than a hundredweight (110231 lb.), and the tonne is equal to 19 6842 cwt. In Prussia a mic= 2,000 ruthen or 4 6807 English mics, a 2012 1 703 in., and an ell= 25½ zoll or 27882 ft. In Brunswick, a mile is equal to 6714 English miles and in Saxony its length is 4 2227 English miles. There is a so in Prussia the square measure of the morgen which is equal to 631 English acres. In Hamburg the measure of the same name is equal to 2385 English acres.

Greece. In this country the metric system is in use, but the names used are as follows—

| Grecian. | Meric. |
|-----------|--------------|
| Pecheus. | Metre. |
| Palame. | Decimetre. |
| Daktylos. | Centimetre. |

| Kokkos. | Centigramme. |

In addition there are the mera = \frac{1}{2} kilogramme, the tonos = 29.526 cwt., and the oke = 2.84 lb.

Holland. The metric system is in use, but the names used are as follows—

| Dutch. | Metric. |

Japan. (a) Length: the shaku, which is about a foot, the ken = 6 shaku, the teho = 60 ken, and the ri= 36 tchos. The ri is, therefore, about 2½ English mies. The square tcho = 2:4507 English acres.

- (b) Weight: the kin, which is divided into 160 momme, equivalent to 1°3251 lb., the kwan (61 kin) = 8°2817 lb., and the tan = 100 kin.
- (c) Capacity: the shoo = '397 gals. or '0496 bushels, the to = 10 shoo, and the koku = 10 to.

Mexico. The metric system is in use, but the old Spanish weights and measures are still in existence.

Norway. The metric system is in use

Persia. (a) Length: the guz or zer is a measure which varies from 36 to 44

- inches, and the parasang = $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

 (b) Weight: the miskal = 47.5 grains, and the maund = $6\frac{1}{2}$ lb.
- (c) Capacity: the chenica = '289 gals, the capicha = 2 chenicas, and the artata = 1.809 bushels.

Peru. The old Spanish weights and measures are in use.

Russia. (a) Length: the vershok = 13 inches, the stopa = 8 vershoks, the arschine = 2 stopas, the saschen = 3 arschines, and the verst = 500 saschan. The verst is, therefore, equal to 1166-6 yds, or 663 of an English mile. The Lithuanian mile = 5'56 English miles. The dessiatine is a square measure equal to 2,400 square saschens or 2 acres, 2 roods, 32 poles.

(b) Weight: the funt = '9026 lb., the pud = 40 funt, the berkovitz = 10 pu is, and the packen = 3 berkovitz. The packen is, therefore, about equal to 1083 lb. The funt is subdivided into 12 lanas, or 32 lotti, or 96 zolotnicks.

(c) Capacity: the tscharkey= '27049 gals., the vedro= 100 tscharkeys, the anker = 8'114 gals., the tchetvort = 46'2 gals., and the sarokowaja = 108'196 gals.

Servia. The metric system is in use.

Spain. The metric system is in use, and the names used are the same as in that system except that the last letter of each weight and measure ends in o instead of e e.g., metro, litro, gramo. The word are is changed into area.

The old Spanish weights and measures, which are still in use in some parts of Central and South America, were as follows—

- (a) Length: the Spanish foot = 10.958 inches, and the vara = 2.782 ft. The square measure the fanegada = 1½ acres.
- (b) Weight: the onza = '063 lb., the libra = 1'1014 lb., and the quintal = 100 libra, or 101'443 lb.
- (c) Capacity: the currillo = off gals, the azumbre = 4 cuartillos, the cuartilla = 2 azumbres, and the arroba mayor = 4 cuartillos. The arroba mayor is, therefore, equal to about 3'55 gals.

Sweden. The metric system is in general use but some of the old measures and weights used in Denmark are still to be found, e.g., the tomme of 1'029 inches, the alen, which is equal to 24 tommes or 24'714 inches; the lod is rather more than ½ 02., and the pund=1'102 lb. An English hundredweight=102 Swedish punds.

Switzerland. The metric system is in use. There is also the weight known as the pfund = rro23 lb. The pfund is divided into r6 unzen or 32 loths. The standard of length is the foot of 3 decimetres = rr*81r inches.

Turkey. The metric system is in use, but the names applied are as follows—

Turkish, Metric.

Arshin. Metre.
Oke. Kilogramme.
Cantaro. 1,000 kilogrammes.
Chequee. 1,000 kilogrammes.

United States. The English imperia weights and measures are generally used, but there are also still in existence certain measures known as the old Winchester measures, These are as follows—

- (a) Liquid: the pint and gallon a e equal to '833 of the imperial pint and gallon. These apply to wines and spirits. A pint of beer = 1'017 pts.
- (b) Dry: the pint, gallon, bushel, and quarter are equal to '969 of the same imperial measure.
